THE SMUGGLER'S RUSE.

How He Turned Informer in Order to Deceive the Customs Officers.

He bowed and tried to look more so in order to invite nor contidence.

"If I were to tell you a secret," she continued, "which I find too much to kee, to myself, would you, oh, would you, keep it inviolable?"

"I know it already, my dearmadam," said he. "It's lace, is it not?"

She attered a little shrick and then looked widdly and suspiciously at him. "Oh, sir," she cried, "it's only ten pounds worth. Please forgive me just this once and I'll never attempt to amuggle again. As it is I wish I were dead."

iy but firmly, "here we are and the omper has his eye upon us. I must do my luty."

Then he pointed out the buxom lady to the legitimate authority, saw her fined and dismissed with a sharp reprimand after the lace had been taken away from her. Then, having given up his emoluments as an informer to the subordinate officials, he quietly foltowed the lady to her hotel, gave her lace twice the value of that she had iot, returned the amount of her fine and explained the matter as follows:
"You, my dear madam, had ten pounds' worth of smuggled lace secreted about your person. I had nearly fifty times that amount, so I turned informer to ward off suspicion from myself. You have too exprecive, a countenance for a smuggler and the office would have detected you snyway, even as I did, without my assistance. And now, madam," he continued, "if you are not satisfied with this explanation of my conduct, or if you still feel aggriceed or injured by what I have done, pray take more lace, for here is lots of it." It is needless to say that the buxom lady was satisfied and before the two smugglers parted they were the

Too Much Talk.

An old proverb says: "An empty cart makes the most noise." The voluble talker generally gives utterance to less ideas than the man of few words. A once noted politician, distinguished more for his stately bearing and finished elecution than his depth of thought, once delivered an elaborate discourse, in such elegance of style and impressiveness of voice as to fascinate those who failed to look below the surface. Once of these enthusiasts told a friend that — had delivered "a splendid and truly eloquent speech." What did he say?" queried the more practical one, and his informant could not repeat a single new idea that the orator had uttered; he was compelled to admit that his oracle had talked for two whole hours, and said absolutely nothing.—The Home.

The Free Press of Saturday has an editornal article commenting on a communication from a school teacher, who complains of the facility with which eryos get into the profession, and suggesting that the standard of examination be advanced rather than lowered as a protection to the boundide teacher. There is not the boundide teacher. There is not man who will say the proficient teacher is sufficiently on the contrary the conviction is prevalent that there is no class of people in Manitoba to-day, taking qualifications and duties into account, so poorly paid as the proficient school teach. But we very much doubt that raising the standard, an examination papers are prepared, will effect the circ until more of the practical and less of the teacher did in the teacher than the standard and examination papers are prepared, will effect the circ until more of the practical and less of the teacher has the most to complain of is not poorly educated poorle savept into the profession by turns, but that the young men and the young women, who are fitting thenselves for the profession and callings, make use of the school roun an stepping stones to help themselves along; and while examinations are conducted on as anuch of the text book principle as two are the purpose of limp petron principle as two are the text book principle as two are the profession and callings, make use of the school roun as stepping stones to the profession and callings, make use of the school roun as stepping stones to the text book principle as two are the text book principl

Behring Sea Matters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—The pondent of the Examiner at Cun-SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—The correspondent of the Examiner at Cunalaska writes under date of Aug. 7th, that during a cruise in the vicinity of the seal islands H. M. S. Phesant had seen and warned five sealers, the U. S. Mohichan five, the Thetis two, and the Alert two. Many of these had to be fired on to make them halt; only one schooner succeeded in getting away. As about fifty schooners have received warning that the next cruise of the warskips will result more seriously to poachers if caught in Behring Sea. The Thetis and the others were dus to asil at the time of writing. The Behring not commissioners arrived July 24th, and are proceeding with the investigation. The Americans will return as soon as possible, but the British seem to be in no hurry.

London, August 11.—According to a St. Petersburg dispatch the Czar has caused it to be notified to the Princess Younefisky, merganatic widow of the late Czar Alexander II., that she must not visit the imperial family on terms of frith a yz, and that her pecular relationship cannot be recognized at court. The Czar himself has a morganatic wife, and is devoted as a husband to the empress. He does not like evidence of his father's losses morals to be thrust too plainly before him, and wemen who were favorites of the late Czar Lave found themselves hardly more than tolerated by the present ruler.
